REPORT SCHOOL BOARD  February 15 to August 31, 1918

The report of your board covers six months, from February 15 to August 31, 1918, the end of the school year as made by law. It has been trying times for the schools the past year.

March 23, 1918, at the annual school meeting, Mrs. Erma E. Mitchell was elected a member of the Board for two years to serve out the unexpired term of Dr. L. T. Togus, and Albert F. Sanborn for three years. The board organized for business by electing C. P. Sanborn as chairman, and and Mrs. Erma E. Mitchell as clerk.

After two adjourned meetings it was voted to build at South Hooksett a new school house and buy a lot for the same. The school board was instructed to hire $\$ 12,000$ or any part of it, to be paid at the rate of $\$ 500$ and interest each year. $\$ 10,000$ was obtained from the Hillsborough County Savings Bank at $4 \frac{3}{4} \%$, to be paid $\$ 500$ and interest each year for 20 years. As the law is now, 20 years is the limit the district can contract a debt. According to the vote of the district to pay $\$ 500$ each year the board could hire only $\$ 10,000$, but this amount will not pay for the lot and other necessary expenses. The sale of the old house and land along the state road should more than pay the amount above the new building.

The board having done its duty, the business of the new house was turned over to the School Treasurer, J. C. Dutton, and the Building Committee, consisting of Albert F. Sanborn, Hollis F. Towne and W.E. Harrison, and the architect, W. H. McLane whose plans were adopted.

The Hutchinson Building Co. of Concord would have had the building done in the fall if the times had been normal. When the building is completed, Hooksett will have one school house it can refer to with pride.

The schools joined with Hooksett Veteran Association on May 30th in Memorial exercises to the advantage of all, we think.

Mrs. Erma E. Mitchell, took the enumeration in September, and found 157 girls and 169 boys. C. P. Sanborn acted as truant office.

We wish to thank all who have given us aid in trying to make our schools good, and urge the parents to take renewed interest in the schools.

We are requested by the State Superintendent of Schools to hold our school meeting in April, as a law may be passed at Concord this term of the legislature that may make change our financial requirements and by having the meeting after the law is passed we will be in a better position to act.

These are the financial requirements as we see them now :

Amount required by law . . . . . . . . $$ 2,26500$
Requirements besides . . . . . . . . 4,500 00

REPORT OF  Superintendent of Schools

February 1, 1919.

To the School Board and Citizens:

The four years of fighting have come to an end. You and I have survived the most momentous period in history, but one frought with no less dangerous possibilities is just ahead. Statesmen and publicists are looking forward, not with a faltering courage, but with a firm conviction that preparedness is the only safeguard against economic and social upheavals more destructive to the bulwarks of civilization than war between nations has ever been.

The right sort of educational effort, supported with the same enthusiasm and generosity with which the war has been supported, could regenerate us in a generation. but will the dark clouds now breaking in storm over Europe stay their progress across the Atlantic and give us time?

To prepare against the future, education must: Combat poverty by teaching the average boy and girl how to make a living, by preserving the child's health during his school days and teaching him how to preserve it during his working years; prevent disloyality by thoroughly acquainting every child with American instuttions, their history and their meaning; lessen class an-tagonism by teaching the intelect to understand economic laws and the heart to feel the brotherhood of man.

Never have the times demanded so imperatively of officials and of citizens clear heads and unselfish hearts. And the alternative? It is now being exhibited to us in Russia and in Germany and in other once wellordered European states.

Our nation is aroused to these needs; the state is drafting legislaton to inaugurate a preparedness campaign. Are the individual towns awake?

We shall require better buildings and furniture to preserve the health; better equipment and courses of study to train for citizenship and to prepare for living; teachers with a broader training and a deeper life experience, of the highest type of manhood and womanhood, physically, mentally and spiritually strong.

Is Hooksett School District ready to meet such demands? The most cheering thing, at present, is the new building which is nearly completed at South Hooksett. When the children of Lincoln Park are comfortably housed in a modern structure, will the parents at Number Six still be content to have their children use the outdoor toilets in their present location and condition? Will the brains of some children at Number Two still simmer uncomplainingly near an unprotected stove? Will the little ones at Number Seven still climb the high platform to reach the blackboard? And will your children in all the schools continue to strain their eyes trying to read from poor blackboards, placed between the windows; to sit for six hours a day in seats that do not fit them? Will mothers be willing to have their children live in rooms that receive about thirty cents' worth of care each week and where flies, fresh from the outhouse vaults crawl over their desks and faces?

When the new building is opened it will require a second teacher. To partly make up for the loss occasined by the crowded condition for the past year or two, a most excellent teacher is demanded. When thousands of schools throughout the country have been closed for lack of teachers, Hcoksett is fortunate indeed in keeping its quota filled, at the salaries paid. Teachers' salaries in Hooksett have increased somewhat in the past twenty years, it is true, but the increase throughout the state has been so much greater than ours that we have no right to expect our present salaries to secure and keep such teachers as we formerly had. In 1898, you report that all your teachers were graduates of higher institutions, as follows: training school, 1; normal school, 3; coilege, 6. But you were paying them twenty per cent more than the state average salary then. In 1913, you were paying a little less than the state average and, according to the state superintendent's report, you had not one trained teacher on your list, with only seventy-four other districts in the state in the same low class. Two hundred and thirty-four districts had some trained teachers, fifty-six of them having fifty per cent. or more. It has not been an easy task, in 1918, with salaries now dropped to ten per cent. less than the state average, to secure good teachers for your schools. And if, after a year or even a term of service, a good teacher hears of a better position, you have given your superintendent no argument with which to induce her to stay, either satisfactory buildings or satisfactory salary.

Another condition, which discourage and drives away ambitious teachers, and makes the work of the schools less efficient, is the hopelessly poor attendance. Influenza caused much unavoidable absence during the past fall term, but for the entire period of my term of office conditions of attendance have been utterly. beyond excuse. I believe that much irregularity is due to thoughtlessness on the part of the parents. I wish they would look over the school registers and consider the waste of time, and money, and energy that such poor attendance entails; the killing of the pupils' interest and the teachers' enthusiasm and courage. More money should be raised to improve attendance. The truant officer should himself take the school census; in no other way can he get the information necessary for his best work. The indiscriminate dragging of children into school and parents into court would not solve the problem, but the community should stand squarely for an adequate system of following up careless families as well as for sterner measures for obstinate offenders.

It is unfortunate that your superintendent lives so far away that he comes in contact with the adult citizens very little. The printed word of criticism seems cold and harsh without the warmer touch of personal acquaintance. You can doubtless realize that I would like to keep on good terms with every man and woman in Hooksett, and that I well know that urgent recommendations involving the expenditure of considerable money do not commonly tend toward that end. I am unable, however, to escape the conviction that my first duty and highest loyalty must be to the children for whom the schools exist rather than to the citizens who pay my salary.

The children have no voice in your deliberations. It is written all over the statistics of Hooksett schools for the past few years that the voice of the taxpayer has been loud and strong.

Not forgetting that the town has a bridge to pay for, that now the school district is in debt, recalling the present high cost of living, but seeing in my daily work your children, their ability, their opportunity, their handicaps, their needs, I must say frankly, deliberately, that Hooksett School District is falling far short in its duty to its "Men and women of tomorrow." I trust that some of you will agree with me, but whether you do or not, I have faith to believe that twenty years from now some of your children will pick up this report and remark: "That superintendent back there told Dad the truth about my school. I wonder what Dad did about it."

My own education was begun in a school similar to the Hooksett schools. I am very well aware that you can point to far too many places in New Hampshire where conditions still remain worse than in Hooksett. But throughout the state such conditions are disappearing more and more rapidly. We do not wish Hooksett to lag too near the rear in this procession.

I have heard it stated that Huoksett cannot afford better schools and have, therefore, taken pains to study especially your financial condition for a long period of time. I find nothing to substantiate such a claim. For the past five years the tax rate for the town for all purposes has been less than the average tax rate throughout the state; and it has been low for a dozen years before that, though I have no state figures with which to compare it. Your school rate of taxation was a little above the state average for schools, in 1899, but in comparison with the state rate it steadily grew less for fifteen years until, in 1913, it was much less then the state average. I have no state figures later than that. Comparing Hooksett with other towns in our supervisory union: Its average school rate from 1903 to 1913 was three-fourths that of Bnscawen, and from 1914 to 1918 it was one-half that of Penacook Behind each of the six teachers now employed, Hooksett has an equalized valuation of more than two hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars. This is ten per cent more than Pembroke has and twenty per cent. above Pittsfield.

My recommendations are:
First.-That the district plan to put at least one building each year into thoroughly satisfactory condition, the school board furnishing to the voters at each annual meting careful estimates of the cost for some particular building.

Second. - That provision should be made in your budget for salaries large enough to retain the services of seven superior teachers for several years.

Third. -That better janitor service be provided for. In the new building, all will agree, that this will be a necessity.

Fourth.-That money be raised to equip the new building with modern furniture.

Fifth. - That every toilet building be put into passable condition and kept so until the reconstruction program, outlined in the first recommendation has been completed at all the schools.

Sixth.-That at least one hundred dollars be appropriated, from which to pay the truant officer on a per diem basis, and that each parent hereby resolve that he shall have no chance to earn one cent of this money.

Seventh.-That the school board report to the selectmen that five hundred dollars will be neded for text books and scholars' supplies and ten dollars for flags.

Circulation of Books

Remarks

The year 1918 has been a very hard year for every one. Public libraries have been no exception. The patronage of the library has been better than usual. The trouble has been in procuring books, also in price. Booksellers tell us that it is very hard to get books from the publishers. Sometimes they wait many weeks to have their orders filled. Books that we could formerly purchase for $$ 1.00$, are now $$ 1.50$ and $$ 1.60$. Our town appropriation has been no larger this year; it follows, that we could not purchase as many books as we would like. We have a good selection of books, recommended by trained librarians. We hope our patrons will enjoy them.

Mr. Charles Porter, of Manchester, has given 7 Geographical Magazines, which is one of the best published. Miss Mary Fuller has given the Red Cross Magazine for the entire year. There are so many earnest Red Cross workers in town, that this magazine is very much appreciated.

When our government called for books for the soldiers, the patrons of the library responded nobly. Nearly 100 books were given. There have been calls upon libraries by the United States government during the war. Arah W. Prescott Library has tried to do its part.

Mr. Arah W. Prescott, our public-spirited citizen. who gave the library building, has replaced the cement steps with solid granite at an expense of $$ 150$. These steps will last as long as there is a Hooksett, and will ever stand as a memorial of Mr. Prescott's generosity.

We would recommend an endowment for the library. If some of our public spirited citizens would each give a few dollars, the interest accruing therefrom would purchase more books every year and we could better supply the demands of our patrons.

Respectfully sulmitted,

JENNIE B. ABBOTT,Librarian.
